Welcome to the Young Wales newsletter

Young Wales is the participation work that is being run by Children in Wales and our partner organisations, and is funded by the Welsh Government.

Young Wales will ensure that children and young people are heard on issues that are important to them, and in particular that these issues are heard by the Welsh Government.

Each month we will bring you the latest news, including updates on the work that is being done by forums and other groups across Wales.

If you have anything you'd like to contribute, please email info@childreninwales.org.uk.

Well-being of Future Generations Act: A guide for young people

The Welsh Government has produced a guide for young people around the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015.

The focus of the Act is on improving the social, economic, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales. The public bodies listed in the Act will be required work more sustainably by thinking long term, working better with people and communities in Wales and taking a more joined-up approach to working with each other, whilst also looking to prevent future problems.

To better inform young people about the work taking place under the Act, the Welsh Government has produced a guide for young people and commissioned a short animation. The animation follows the journey of Megan's life from birth to old age and explains how the Act will affect and influence her future.

For more information visit the Welsh Government website.

Youth Work week 2016

Youth Work week will be held between 23-30 June this year, with many events taking place across the country. A national event to showcase youth work in Wales will take place on Tuesday June 28 between 12 - 2pm in the Red Dragon Centre, Cardiff Bay.

The event will showcase the breadth of youth work and examples of the wide range of excellent projects that are delivered across Wales.

Youth Work Week is an annual event that gives youth workers and young people the opportunity to celebrate and share the achievements and impacts of youth work.

Visit the Young Wales website for more information.

Challenging the negative media reporting of the LGBT community

The Children's Commissioner for Wales has produced a guide to challenging reporting that is damaging or offensive to the LGBT community in the media such as TV, radio or on the internet. The Commissioner has teamed up with Digon, an LGBT rights group in Ysgol Gyfun Gymraeg Plasmawr, Cardiff, to produce the artwork in the guide.

The guide emphasis that all children have the right to be treated fairly and to have their voices heard and gives advice on what can be done.

You can download the guide here.

Young Trustees Cymru

The Young Trustees Cymru project is a youth-led project promoting and supporting young people in volunteering to become trustees, board members and youth reps through a process of training, support and awareness raising.

Did you know the average mean age of a Charity Trustee is 57? Young Trustees and Board Members can bring enthusiasm and energy to your board, offer a contemporary set of skills and provide a youth perspective.

The training course is FREE and has been developed to equip young people with the essential skills and knowledge to sit on Trustee and Management Boards. All who successfully complete the course will receive a 'Preparing to be a Board Member' AQA Qualification.

For more information on the project contact jannines@childrensrightsunit.org.uk or call 01639 323030.

Children's Commissioner recruiting young people for Advisory Panel

The Children's Commissioner is looking for young people to join her Advisory Panel.

The Young People's Advisory Panel is a new group being set up to advise Sally Holland, Children's Commissioner for Wales, on her work. The Children's Commissioner and her team promote and protect the rights and welfare of children and young people living in Wales.

The Commissioner is looking to recruit 12 young people, enquiries are welcome from everyone and it is hoped that the panel will be made of a diverse range of young people with backgrounds and experiences.

Visit the Young Wales website for more information.

TACT seeking care leavers to mentor children and young people

TACT, the UK's largest adoption and fostering charity, is seeking young care leavers to mentor looked after children and young people.

This exciting opportunity offers young care leavers the opportunity to work with looked after children and young people who have experienced considerable trauma and harm. Mentors will receive training and support to build trust and confidence with the vulnerable people they'll be working with.
